We Love The Want Ads

Every newspaper has want ads.

They're little, wordy advertisements, usually of a rather personal nature and always appear in the back pages of the particular edition. And they're one of the most popular items in your newspaper you're reading right now.

Basically, they're popular because they're easy to read—the message comes across immediately—and usually you can find just what you're looking for. The person who first included them in a newspaper was probably an unsung genius.

Anyone can sell almost anything, rent a house, contact a friend, market a service or buy a puppy for his kid if he so wishes. And they're popular with advertisers too.

It seems everybody loves the want ads. —Crowley (La.) Daily Signal

Oh, Well

Sen. Edward Brooke (R-Mass.) came up with a sensible idea this week to help cut down on the long Senate days with which Congressmen often find themselves faced. "If," Sen. Brooke told his colleagues, "we stop calling each other distinguished, we might save 10 working days."

Sen. Brooke's proposal was warmly received by the Senate. So much so that Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield was moved to reply: "I appreciate the remarks of the distinguished senator from Massachusetts." And so much, too, for that idea. —Tifton (Ga.) Gazette

Law Makes Bomb Training Necessary

By WILLIAM L. CHAZE
Associated Press Writer

FT. RUCKER, Ala. (AP) — A. L. Posey of Tampa, Fla., narrowed his eyes and intently watched a soldier in faded fatigues heave a firebomb at a large piece of plywood using a quick, underhanded motion, like a softball pitcher.

The flimsy plywood burst into bright orange flames when the soft-drink bottle filled with kerosene shattered against it.

"You can tell it's a firebomb now," said Posey, a special investigator for the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Division of the Internal Revenue Service.

"But would you know if you came around two or three days later? That's what it is about."

The firebomb was hurled in a remote wooded area of Ft. Rucker Thursday as the Internal Revenue Service demonstrated the training it has quietly given hundreds of agents.

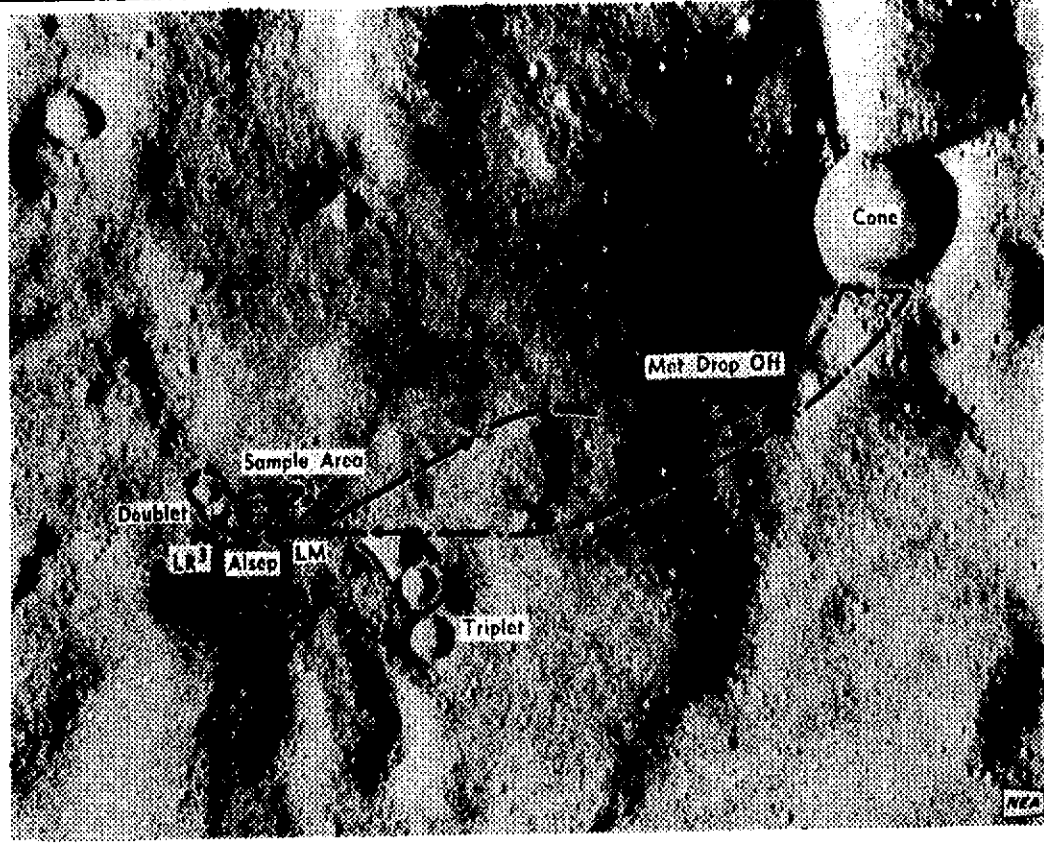

The training has been underway across the nation since Jan. 4, said Joseph F. Kelly, chief special investigator for the division.

He declined to say how many division agents had been trained nationwide, but said the figure was 550 for the Southeast.

Kelly said the training was made necessary by the Organized Crime Act of 1970 which gave the job of investigating bombings and controlling explosives to the division.

Kelly, of Jackson, Miss., said each agent had received at least 40 hours training on how to collect evidence and identify various explosives and the kinds of damage they cause.

In demonstrations at Ft. Rucker and Ft. McClellan, Ala., Ft. Gordon, Ga., and Ft. Bragg, N.C., 15 explosive devices were detonated at each site. Most of them, said Posey, were made from items bought from such readily accessible sources as grocery stores.

MOONWALKERS Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Edgar D. Mitchell are set for two excursions on the lunar surface after setting down their Apollo 14 Landing Module in the Fra Mauro region. Starting from the touchdown point (LM), they will first set up the Surface Experiment Package (ALSEP) and retro-reflector (LR3, for later laser experiments beamed from earth), returning to the module after circling Doublet craters and the rock sampling area. Itinerary for the second excursion includes Cone crater, about one mile from the landing point. On the way, they drop off their mobile workbench, the Modular Equipment Transporter (MET). If time permits on their return to the module, they will circle Triplet craters.

All Volunteer Army Plan in Pay Proposal

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has asked Congress to clear the way for an all-volunteer Army by mid-1973 by approving a $1.5-billion pay raise and improving other aspects of military life.

The President disclosed the July 1, 1973 target date Thursday by asking Congress to extend for only two years the military draft authority due to expire July 1. Such requests are usually for four years.

"No one knows precisely when we can end conscription," the President said. "We shall make every endeavor to reduce draft calls to zero by that time, carefully and continually re-examining our position as we proceed toward that goal."

Sen. John Stennis, chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, said he doubts the draft can be done away by mid-1973 as Nixon suggested. But the Mississippi Democrat, who refused to hold hearings on draft reform legislation last year, announced his panel will begin testimony on it next week.

Outlining his proposals, Nixon said: "The objective of this administration is to reduce draft calls to zero, subject to the overriding considerations of the national security."

Most of the pay hikes would go to servicemen in lower grades as an incentive to enlist. Other Nixon proposals are a test program for special pay incentives, expanded recruiting, medical scholarships and expanded ROTC programs.

In addition, the President asked for national—rather than state—assignment of quota numbers for potential draftees under the lottery system.

Until an all-volunteer Army is possible, Nixon urged legislation to make the draft "as equitable as possible," including a phasing out of undergraduate deferments.

Of his pay-raise proposals to go into effect May 1, 1971, Nixon said, "If approved by Congress, this action would result in total additional investment of $2.7 billion for military manpower and would substantially reduce the present inequity in the pay of men and women serving in the armed forces."

A recruit's monthly salary would go from $134 to $201.90; an E-2, the next grade, from $149 to $229.90; and an E-3 from $180.19 to $244.20.

Meanwhile, Sens. Mark Hatfield of Oregon and Barry Goldwater of Arizona were joined by six other Republicans and five Democrats in introducing draft-reform legislation Thursday calling for a 50-per cent pay increase and expanded financial benefits not included in Nixon's proposal.

Big Increase in Telephones

NEW YORK (AP) — The number of telephones in the world has increased 90 per cent to 255 million in the last decade, according to the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

The United States ranks first with 115.2 million telephones, or about 45 per cent of the total, followed by Japan with 23.1 million and the United Kingdom with 13.9 million, AT&T says.

Connally Says He Thinks He Can Help

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrat John B. Connally says he agreed to join the Nixon Cabinet because he is "vain enough to believe" he can help stabilize the economy and "silly enough to try."

"That's why I'm here," the former Texas governor told the Senate Finance Committee which is considering President Nixon's nomination of Connally to be secretary of the Treasury.

Connally was given a gentle grilling by the committee Thursday. And he was forceful in making two points: He'll be his own man as Treasury secretary, and he's already an intimate of the President.

A vote on the nomination was delayed until Tuesday.

Again and again, Connally referred to his hours-long discussions with President Nixon. When he spoke about the economy, he appeared to have the assurance of someone speaking not just for himself but for the President as well.

He talked about how he and the President are alarmed by the rising prices and wages and specifically mentioned a 15-per cent boost in construction workers' salaries as being so high Nixon might not commit allotted federal construction dollars at those prices.

Defector Gets Possessions

NEW YORK (AP) — Natalya Makarova, the Russian ballerina who recently defected, has been granted court permission to re-enter her Park Avenue apartment, after she was locked out and denied access to what she described as all her "worldly possessions."

An affidavit in State Supreme Court Thursday said Miss Makarova and her interpreter and composer, Vladimir Rodzienko, sublet the apartment from Irene Epstein for three months at $400 a month.

A dispute arose when Mrs. Epstein claimed the Russians had inflicted $1,000 damage on the premises, and had failed to pay telephone and electric bills. While negotiations were going on, the affidavit added, Mrs. Epstein had the locks on the apartment changed.

Another Phase of Manson Show Underway

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles Manson has started the penalty phase of the Sharon Tate murder trial by insulting the judge, punching his attorney and getting kicked out of court.

The outbursts came in a day of unpredictable twists Thursday which suggested that the penalty hearing would be as surprise-filled as the seven-month-old trial of the 36-year-old hippie-type clan leader and three women codefendants.

The action included testimony by a rotund black musician nicknamed "Lotsapoppa" who said Manson once shot him, an unexpected motion by the chief defense counsel to change Patricia Krenwinkel's plea to innocent by reason of insanity and an abortive try by Manson's attorney to show a juror had "taken to alcohol."

Manson was convicted last Monday of murder-conspiracy in the slayings of Miss Tate and six others in August 1969. Three women followers, who were described by the state as robots who did the killings at his command also were found guilty.

As the women arrived Thursday, clad in chic pants suits, defendant Susan Atkins, 22, walked into court mimicking a robot, her legs stiff and arms moving machinelike at her sides.

The same jury which found the four guilty must decide between two sentences, life imprisonment or death in the gas chamber.

Manson, who was repeatedly ejected during the trial's first phase for disruptive conduct, asked to speak before the first witness was called. He arose and repeated an old demand—to be his own attorney—saying, "We wish to put on a defense... The attorneys wouldn't understand a defense if you put it in front of them."

When Superior Court Judge Charles Older denied the motion, saying Manson was inadequate to represent himself, the diminutive, bearded defendant shouted, "You've already convicted me of something I didn't do! ... There's no justice here. Older! Dammit, man, look at it! ... What good is a courtroom if it's one sided?"

The judge told him to sit down. Manson did but, referring to the judge, shouted, "He ain't got no guts! He's a woman!" As the first witness was being sworn, Manson suddenly told his attorney, Irving Kanarek, "I can't communicate with you," then began punching him in the arm and chest as they sat side-by-side at the counsel table.

Manson was pulled from his chair by bailiffs and led out to a holding cell adjoining the courtroom.

Living Costs Soar, White House Silent

By NEIL GILBRIDE
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government report showing the highest two-year rise in living costs in nearly a quarter century has prompted new cries of alarm from Democrats and organized labor and silence from the White House.

The Labor Department report said consumer prices in December turned more sharply upward and wound up 1970 with a 5.5-per cent hike on top of 1969's 6.1-per cent rise.

Living costs in December and in the final quarter of 1970 showed a renewed upswing.

Dr. Joel Popkin, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics which compiles the report, said the combined two-year total wiped out 12 per cent of the purchasing power of every dollar. That total matched a 1950-51 inflationary binge during the Korean War and was highest since 1946-47, immediately after World War II.

The bureau said 1970 inflation more than wiped out wage gains of 45 million rank-and-file workers and left them 1 per cent, or about $1 a week, behind 1969 purchasing power and $2.39 below buying power two years ago. The average paycheck before taxes rose $1.03 a week in December to $122.43.

Unemployment reached a total of 4.6 million Americans at the end of 1970, highest in nine years.

There was no immediate comment on the cost-of-living report from President Nixon, or from his chief economic adviser, Dr. Paul W. McCracken, who just two days earlier had greeted January's biggest wholesale-price hike in a year by saying, "I find myself on the whole reassured by the figures."

Reagan Has No Designs Personally

By BILL STALL
Associated Press Writer

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan says he has told President Nixon he has no personal designs on the White House and that he plans to back him at the 1972 Republican National Convention.

Reagan, saying "I hate to disappoint some of the political pundits," described the relationship between him and the President as very close.

The governor said Thursday he had told the President he plans to lead California's delegation to the next GOP convention pledged to Nixon's renomination and re-election.

The two conferred in Washington last week.

The governor also told a news conference Thursday "there never has been any problem of communication" between him and Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, the administration's liaison man with the governors.

"The vice president has been very accessible," said Reagan. Other Republican governors complained during their winter conference at Sun Valley in December that White House liaison through Agnew had been faulty.

During the past year, Reagan has been critical of the Nixon administration's welfare reform plan, has fought with the Health, Education and Welfare Department over how California is running its welfare program, and battled with the Office of Economic Opportunity over a federally funded legal aid program in California.

Most recently, Reagan announced his opposition to the concept of national health insurance.

All this led some political observers and columnists to speculate that Reagan was preparing to offer himself as a possible alternate candidate to Republicans in 1972.

Any Debate Over What Apollo 14 Blastoff Set for Sunday

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) —

Curbstone comments of a Pavement Plato:

Youth has its freedoms, but so does middle age. Any debate over what is the best time of life is one-sided. The arguments are all heavily weighted in favor of childhood or youth.

This is because man has an incurable nostalgia for the earlier years of his life. He romanticizes his boyhood and idealizes his adolescence and young manhood. Weighed down with later troubles, he looks back upon this period as one in which for the last time this side of the Great Shadow he was innocent carefree and happy.

Much of this is pure self-delusion. The average child doesn't feel innocent, but more like a hardened criminal whose parents haven't caught up with his felonies. He knows he's getting away with something he shouldn't, and this bothers and frustrates him.

Tell the truth now, and really test your memory. Didn't you feel guiltier when you were 5 or 6 years old than when you were 25 or 30?

As for adolescence, anyone who can gaze back fondly on those acne-ridden, nightmare-haunted years of self-doubt and transition isn't remembering them as they really were but as he now wishes they had been.

Tax Revision Bill to Raise $20 Million

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A tax revision bill introduced in the Senate might produce as much as $20 million if approved says its sponsor, Sen. Joe T. Ford of Little Rock.

Ford introduced the bill Jan. 14 but has permitted the measure to remain in committee so aides of Gov. Dale Bumpers can examine the bill and decide whether any of its provisions might be incorporated into the governor's tax package.

Ford has some reports to back up his $20 million forecast, although the figure is larger than other estimates attached to the proposal.

Several recommendations of the Legislative Advisory Committee on Tax Reform are embodied in the bill. The measure also includes a repealer of the use-tax exemption enjoyed by utility, transportation and pipeline companies.

The most important section of the bill would tighten the state's property assessment laws, forcing most of the counties to increase assessments.

Currently, property assessments are supposed to be at 20 per cent of the real value, but penalties are not prescribed until assessments dip below 18 per cent.

The bill would require then penalties, which are the withholding of state turnback to schools, cities and county governments, be invoked if assessments fell below 20 per cent.

Of the state's 75 counties, 57 have assessment ratios below 20 per cent in some areas.

The bill also would strengthen the state's policing of assessments by requiring the Assessment Coordination Division to sample at least 6 per cent of the property, rather than the 3 per cent now required.

The division, in a report to Ford, says that spot checks have been made in the last two years on such personal property as mobile homes, airplanes, banks, farm machinery, boats, motors and other machinery to determine whether a large portion of personal property was escaping assessment.

The total amount of revenue from personal property taxation amounts to about $33.4 million and the division thinks that about $6 million in revenue is being lost through failure to get all property reported for assessment.

dy Chayefsky why he had never written a drama about adolescence. He replied, "I couldn't even bear to try. It would be too painful."

The fact about life is that every part of it is a mixed blessing and a mixed curse. Each has its woes; each has its victories. For most of us, now is as good a time as any. The present breath we draw is certainly as important to us at the moment as any we drew before or any we may draw later.

In assessing the pleasure of any period of existence, it is important to remember that it is measured not only by the things you can do then but also by the things you no longer have to do. For example, it is downright satisfying in middle age to know that you don't have to:

Grow muscles to impress anyone.

Climb every balcony.

March in every parade.

Volunteer for every war.

Empty the bottle before going to bed.

Enlist in every cause just because someone proclaims it a good one.

Hurry to get somewhere you don't even want to go.

Prove you can keep a friend or a wife. It's already on the record that you can.

Upset the other guy's apple cart to satisfy your vanity.

Develop any new prejudices, because you've got more than enough to last you the rest of the way.

When you get right down to it, the only freedom middle age lacks is the freedom to act young and irresponsible. And that's why so many people hate middle age. It forces them to grow up as well as older—and that's much more painful.

District Lines Drawn for Congress Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — The battle for control of the next Congress already is under way with state legislatures on the spot, drawing new district lines based on the 1970 census.

Campaign committees for both parties are busily at work seeking maximum advantage from the redistricting required for the 1972 elections in all states except the six with only one congressman.

As a result of population shifts during the last decade, five states will have increased representation in the House and nine will lose seats. Shifts within the other states will require new boundary lines even though the seat total remains the same.

Rep. Bob Wilson, R-Calif., chairman of the Republican Congressional Committee, said Thursday a lobbying effort at the state level is a key point in the committee's 1972 campaign plans.

"We need to get a fair shake," he said at a press conference. "We're going to work with governors and state legislatures friendly to us and ask them not to overlook Congress. Since states do the redistricting they sometimes forget about us."

At the Democratic Congressional Committee, researchers have compiled a lot of information to guide party strategists in seeking favorable new boundary lines.

The strong Democratic showing in state elections last Nov. 3—a net gain of 11 governorships, four state senates and four houses of representatives has put them in a good position for a redistricting fight.

The Democrats figure they control the redistricting machinery in 19 states, the Republicans control it in 11, and neither party controls in the other 20.

Prizes on the Democratic list are Florida, which will gain three new seats; Texas, which gets one, and Ohio, which now has the largest Republican delegation in Congress but will lose one seat.

Apollo 14 Blastoff Set for Sunday

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The countdown ticked on, the astronauts relaxed, and everything was "go" today for Sunday's launching of Apollo 14 to the moon.

At 3:23 p.m. EST Sunday, if there are no hitches, Alan B. Shepard Jr., Edgar D. Mitchell and Stuart A. Roosa will ride the power of a Saturn 5 rocket away from their home planet on America's first moon flight in nine months.

The launch team concentrated today on the Saturn 5 after completing preparatory work on the command and lunar modules Friday. Batteries were installed on the rocket and power was transferred to internal from an external ground source.

The astronauts generally planned to relax in crew quarters five miles from the launch pad. In the afternoon they visit with their families and friends, communicating with them through a glass partition.

The partition is a requirement of a Medical Isolation that the astronauts started Jan. 11. They are restricted to direct contact with key personnel.

The wives and children of all three spacemen flew here from their Houston homes to watch the launching.

For Louise Shepard it will be the second time she has watched her husband vault into space. Nearly a decade ago, Shepard became America's first spaceman when he made a brief suborbital trip atop a relatively puny Redstone rocket with less than one-one-hundredth the power of the Saturn 5.

For Louise Mitchell and Joan Roosa it will be a first. Their husbands are space rookies.

This will be the first manned launch to the moon since the abortive Apollo 13 mission last April. The future of the Apollo program could be riding on it.

The near-disaster of Apollo 13, in which the three astronauts made it safely home on the systems of the lunar module after an oxygen tank exploded in the command ship, contributed to the cancellation of two Apollo launches. All three of the remaining moon landings could be in jeopardy if Apollo 14 fails.

Apollo 14 was delayed nearly four months while design changes were made to the oxygen tank system and additional safety features were added to the spacecraft.

"We have a better spacecraft now and it's without a doubt more so than Apollo 13," Roosa said recently. "We have absolutely solved the danger of a repeat of the 13 problem."

For three days, Apollo 14 is to coast outwards for the moon and fire into lunar orbit at 2:01 a.m. EST Thursday. At 4:16 a.m. Friday, Shepard and Mitchell are to land the lunar machine they call Antares in the ancient highlands of Fra Mauro on the eastern edge of the Ocean of Storms.

They aim to touch down in a narrow valley between two clusters of craters nicknamed Triplet and Doublet. They will require precision flying, for this is an area of hills and ridges 8,000 feet high, numerous craters and rocks as big as automobiles.

Scientists believe that in this rugged terrain is material dating back 4.6 billion years to the creation of the moon. Analysis could determine much about the "birth pangs" of the moon.

During 33½ hours on the moon, Shepard and Mitchell plan two outside excursions, each lasting four to five hours. The first will be devoted mainly to deploying a nuclear-powered science station, which is to relay data to earth for a year or more. The second will be a geology field trip that will cover 8,400 yards and take them more than half a mile from Antares to the rim of a huge crater named Cone. Here they hope to find the oldest rocks.

Roosa will orbit alone in the command ship Kitty Hawk, conducting photographic and other scientific observations until Shepard and Mitchell rejoin him.

PINT SIZE POST OFFICE

Post office at Ochopee, Fla. (pop. around 100).

There's space at the counter for three people but business is seldom as brisk as that, and the place just doesn't fill up.

Postmaster Brown sits in front of the pigeonholes where sorted mail is kept.

Ochopee, Fla., does, too, have a post office. And it's only slightly larger than its zip code.

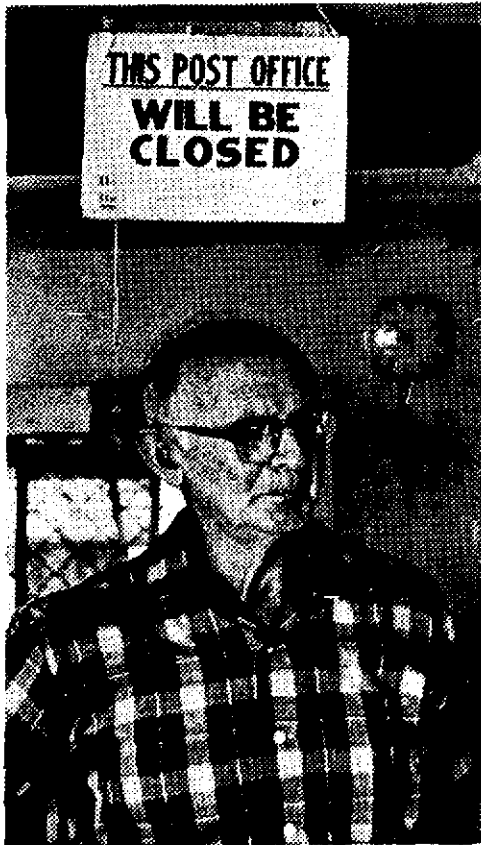

The one room, wood and galvanized metal structure which sits alone off the Tamiami Trail (U.S. Highway 41) in southwest Florida measures seven feet, three inches by eight feet, four inches. "And that's the outside dimension," Postmaster Sidney H. Brown, 67, is quick to point out. The zip code is 33943.

The post office at Ochopee was established in 1932. Brown became postmaster in 1933 and has remained on the job ever since. The present building, Brown says, was built as a "temporary" structure in 1957. Nothing has changed.

The Ochopee post office sells stamps and money orders, but Brown gives away a quick wit to all patrons, whether they are regulars or tourists who stop by to mail a letter from the smallest post office in the United States.

Garland City Has Woman Mayor

By DALA MCKINSEY
Associated Press Writer
GARLAND CITY, Ark. (AP) —Mrs. Martha Franklin is the new mayor of this small Miller County town of 377 residents, but she said she was not sure whether she ran for the office as a Republican or an independent.

In the flurry of filing her papers, Mrs. Franklin said she thought she ran as an independent, but could not be certain until she checked.

Mrs. Franklin said she had always been a Democrat, but now considers herself a "reformed Republican." She said she had supported former Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, a Republican, for office.

"I used to think that a person could be a Christian at heart and vote Republican, but I've changed my mind," she said. Mrs. Franklin said she had always felt that the Republicans were more partial to the rich than the Democrats.

Her opponent, incumbent William Crank, a Democrat, received 35 vote to Mrs. Franklin's 78.

Mrs. Franklin, who is also vice president of the Garland City School Board, said she did not really have any plans to run but decided at the last minute after being urged by residents of the town.

Mrs. Franklin is not the only woman official elected.

Mrs. Irie Sue Cutchall was elected the new city recorder and Mrs. Janice Jankowski is the new city treasurer.

Mrs. Jankowski has two small children, one born during the election. Mrs. Cutchall also has two children and runs a fish market.

Mrs. Franklin said that Garland City does not have more women voters than men. She said she thought the women were elected to office because voters in the town were ready for a change.

Since the women have taken office, the town board has had five meetings in 12 days to discuss projects.

The main issue in the campaign was obtaining a municipal water system for the town, said Mrs. Franklin. She said that the majority of the residents have their own water wells and others share water or carry it from a central well.

Mrs. Franklin said the town is losing population, primarily because of the lack of water and she is afraid that the population drain also will affect the quality of the town's schools.

If there were a municipal system, Mrs. Franklin said that perhaps industry would be attracted to the town, bringing in more residents.

She said that another town in the county the size of Garland City had a municipal water system built with federal aid.

She said she plans to apply for a federal loan, which has not been made before.

The new mayor said she also would like to see surrounding areas annexed to increase the city's tax base.

She said she could not foresee any reason to increase the present 5 mill city tax rate.

City council meetings will have to be held at night, since all the members of the council and the city officials hold regular jobs.

Mrs. Franklin, 49, has been a mail carrier for more than 22 years and intends to continue. In addition, she normally helps out in her husband's liquor store in Texarkana. However, since her election, the Franklin's have hired extra help with the store to relieve her of her duties.

She said her husband and five married daughters are pleased that she won the election.

Mrs. Franklin says she did not realize campaigning was so hard, even in a small community where everyone knows their neighbors.

Most of her campaign was a personal door-to-door drive. However, she said as the voters would hear new rumors, she would have to revisit homes and tell residents where she stood on such issues as the water system.

Not only does Garland City have a new mayor, but it has a new city hall. But, Mrs. Franklin does not envision furnishings any fancier than a desk, typewriter and chairs.

She said that one of her reasons for running — apathy — seems to be partially resolved. During her recent swearing-in ceremonies, she said that ev-

HELEN HELP US!

SEARCH FOR EL FIN STILL GOES ON

Dear Helen:
Did you ever find "El Fin" the 14-year-old who was sure no one cared and asked you to give her one good reason why she shouldn't take the pills she'd been saving up to kill herself with?

My friends and I wrote letters to her (via HHU) asking her to let us help. Please tell us you found El Fin. We can't get her off our minds. —THE WORRIERS, HACKENSACK HIGH SCHOOL

Dear Worriers:
All the hundreds of you who want to contact "El Fin":

Though I've tried through several "Personals" in her hometown newspaper, I've heard nothing more from "El Fin," (who gave me no name and address). And this is why columnists beat their heads against the wall. Here is a girl who desperately needs help but is so sure that "no one cares" (or perhaps so afraid of the authorities) that she won't reveal her name. I can only hope she has contacted the agencies I suggested in my "Personal to El Fin." I hope, too, she reads this column—which proves again that love is always waiting, if we reach out for it.

Dear Helen:

I have never been so moved as I was by the letter from El Fin. I'm black. I have a four room apartment. I would welcome into my home and life this girl who believes no one cares. I'm giving as my reference the name of my pastor.

You see, life has been very good to me. I want to show my thankfulness by helping a girl who needs to know the world isn't all bad. —ESTHER O.

Dear Helen:

Please tell El Fin there are every chair was filled in the city hall as people crowded in to see their new officials.

people who care! I'm 23 now, and several years ago I felt exactly as she does. I needed people to say "I love you. I care."

El Fin: You can't bottle up those feelings. You have to express yourself, even if it's to a stranger—just as you did to Helen. You have to realize that everyone isn't out to "use" you. Please send your address to Helen, so that we can show you pills aren't your way out. I know—for at one time, I felt that way too. —N.M.

Dear Helen:

I cried, reading the letter from El Fin. I want to be her friend, to tell her that God cares and so do I. There's a motto I live by: Regardless of what has happened before, TODAY is the first day of the rest of your life. Make it special!

I'm not a religious fanatic, but I've come to realize that if you let God take over, wonderful things happen. I hope she contacts Youth Outreach, as you suggested, Helen. Please send her my letter so that, if she wants, she can write to me. —JUDITH

Dear Helen:

If you find El Fin, please let me know. I will have to speak to my parents, but I'm sure they will ask her to come and visit us, because they're that kind of people. We could find her a decent place in this community. So many of us really CARE. —A.T., CALIFORNIA

Dear Helen:

I am a mother of four daughters and two sons, and I hope they will always consider me their built-in "hot line." There's always room for one more in our lives. Tell El Fin that, Helen. —MRS. E.G.

ANOTHER "PERSONAL" TO EL FIN: Your mail grows each day. Please send me your name and address so that I can forward it to you. At least write and let us know that you're all right. So very many people care! —H.

We Are Moving

After giving it much thought we have decided to consolidate our two stores. Saturday, January 30 will be our last day to operate the Gibson Rexall Drug Store, 121 South Elm, Hope, Ark.

We will move to our new location, Deanna Drug, 6th. & Main St. All prescription files and charge accounts will be moved, so you can continue to have your prescriptions refilled and charged as always. All personal will be moved also. So everything will be the same except we will be in our new building and you will enjoy it much more. Since our new store is in a much better location, easy to get to. We have our own parking lot which you can pull right up to the front door and walk in without hunting for a parking place and there is no high curb to climb up.

The new Deanna Drug, which is also a Rexall Store, is much larger and roomier than the old store. We will be able to offer you a much larger variety of merchandise in the store. Almost anything that you could want in a drug store can be found in our new store.

In the new store we will be able to handle a much bigger volume and will be able to give you even better prices than ever. We are real thrilled with Deanna Drug and if you haven't been in yet, we know that you will be too.

By consolidating the two stores we will be able to give you much better service. All of our sales people and pharmacists will be at the lone location to give you fast service and there will be no waiting for your prescriptions. We will be able to fill them in a matter of minutes and you will be on your way. Or if you need delivery service we can have your delivery out at anytime of the day.

We invite all of our Gibson Rexall Drug customers and everyone else to come on in to Deanna Drug, this is your new drug store and you will be very proud of it.

We will give Gold Bond Stamps.

Don't write in to tell us that we are misquoting an adage when we suggest that people who live in glass houses shouldn't throw contracts.

South put himself under observation when he opened a 15-point no-trump. He did have two 10s and a nine to back up his 15 points. Furthermore, if North played at three no-trump there is little chance that he would make his contract. With South as declarer, three no-trump should waltz in.

East's king of hearts fell to his ace at trick one. He led a club to dummy at trick two and lost a spade finesse to West who led a club back. South won in dummy and proceeded to lose a second spade finesse. Back came a club and South made his last move by leading a diamond to his queen. West won with the king and led the suit back whereupon South wound up with the eight sure tricks he had started with.

Could South have made his contract in spite of everything being wrong? Just about as easy as cutting a piece of pie.

He should play three rounds of clubs after winning the heart lead. Then when he lost the spade finesse to West South could sit back and claim his contract. In fact he might well wind up with an overtrick.

West would have to lose a trick with any card he led. A spade lead would give South two spade tricks. A heart lead would lead South score his 10. A diamond lead would ride up to South's queen. West would have to lead one of those suits since South would have pulled all his clubs.

Cats Lose Heartbreaker to Camden

By BILL MOORE
Star Sports Writer

Plagued by fouls and the fine outside shooting of Camden, the Hope Bobcats were stunned by the Panthers, 86-62, last night.

Hope's record for the season is 13-6 and for the conference standings it drops to 3-1.

After Jim Pickett and Parker Powell exchanged field goals, the Panthers began pulling away, getting a 9-2 lead before David Briggs hit a charity shot with 4:21 left in the period.

Later, a three point play by Briggs, coupled with points by Lynn Norton, John Dudley, and Powell, left Hope trailing 24-12, with 39 seconds left.

The quarter shortly thereafter ended with the Panthers hold a sizeable 27-14 lead.

With Hope taking the tipoff, Norton quickly ripped the net with a two pointer, and after Dudley had sunk two short field goals to total the score at 35-21, Camden was in good command.

Powell and Dudley hit the remaining points of the half as the Bobcats went to the dressing room, trailing, 42-29.

Starting off the second half, Briggs and Powell opened up early with two points each and after seven more points pulled Hope to within eight, 48-40, Camden called time.

Back in play, however only Dudley could hit two free throws as the third quarter ended with the Panthers leading the Bobcats, 61-42.

In the last quarter Hope just couldn't stay up, falling as much as 33 points behind.

Norton and Charles Frazier started the scoring, but two minutes later, after Briggs had popped another in, Hope trailed, 69-50.

Hitting a cold streak, the Bobcats just couldn't generate much on offense, until the last minute or so when Buddy Ingram hit four points, and Ronnie Massanelli and Roger Newton connected for the last scores.

Dudley and Briggs had 18 points each, Powell had 10,

Norton had five and Ingram hit four.

Earlier, the Bobkittens, although staying with the larger Camden team most of the way, fell to the Panthers in the last quarter, 53-48.

Hope started out cold and meanwhile, Camden built up a 6-0 lead, before David Huddleston hit a free throw with 2:14 left in the quarter.

With just over 20 seconds left in the quarter Huddleston sacked one from the corner to keep Hope hanging in the ball game. As they trailed, 12-7, moving into the second period.

Outscoring Camden, 10-7, in the first five minutes, Hope eventually knotted the score at 17 all, and after two more ties, moved ahead, 22-20, at halftime on two free shots by Rhodes.

Coming back out in the third period, Bud Martin started Hope's scoring, but after tying the Bobkittens with 2:36 left, Camden took a 31-29 lead and then outthit Hope, 8-4, for a 39-33 lead at the close of the third period.

Although getting the tipoff, the Kittens could go nowhere, and after falling four more points behind, Hope trailed, 43-33.

Four points by Marshall Scott and two by Huddleston brought Hope back to within four, but after that Camden sewed it up.

For Hope, Rhodes had 13 points, Huddleston hit 11, and Martin sank eight.

Alcindor and Robertson Great . . . but Problems

By NOLAN ZAVORAL
MILWAUKEE, Wis. — (NEA) — The Milwaukee Bucks are two-fifths of the way toward a dream team in the National Basketball Association. However, the influx of Lew Alcindor and Oscar Robertson has brought special problems for Bucks' coach Larry Costello.

There is no argument, of course, that Alcindor, won on a flip with the Phoenix Suns in the 1969 college draft, or Robertson, obtained from the Cincinnati Royals last year, have contributed greatly to the Bucks' revenue and record.

Capacity crowds now cram the Milwaukee Arena to watch Alcindor, 7-2 center, intimidate the bad guys, and Robertson, 6-5 guard, finesse them. Bucks win. Simple.

For Costello, though, a perfectionist and driver, a man who has bellowed orders through cupped hands when his team led by 46 points, whose face flushes at a bad call, a missed pass, for him everything is not so simple.

Costello has been frustrated this season by Robertson's tendency to decline working for his shot, passing to Alcindor instead.

"When I was a guard at Syracuse and we were playing the Royals, Robertson, Twyman and Lucas were always running at us, looking for shots. They never stopped," said Costello.

"Now Oscar just keeps looking for Lew. But Oscar has got to start shooting more if we're really going to go. I want him to stare his man in the eye, then back into him, work toward the basket, get that shot."

"Now about the only time Oscar dribbles is to set up Lew. But I don't tell Oscar all this and expect him to start doing it right away. It takes time. I can't tell him, 'Geez, you did it at Cincinnati, so why not with Milwaukee?' You don't do that with an old pro like him."

Costello, who at 39 is only seven years older than Robertson, was asked if the perennial all-pro had ever balked at a suggestion. "No," Costello said. "I'm the coach, he's the player."

Robertson and Alcindor are cocaptains, additional work for the former, an honorary title for the latter. Robertson has tempered his advice to teammates since his Cincinnati days when, it is told, a rookie responded to instructions by stalking to the showers during practice.

The Bucks agreed that
